Embark on an Epic Railroading Adventure in the Arctic Circle

In 2024, prepare to witness the spectacle of LKAB's Malmbanan railroad in its full glory. This legendary line transports an astonishing 30 million tons of iron ore annually from the mines of Kiruna, Sweden, to the port of Narvik, Norway. It's a journey that traverses the pristine landscapes of the Arctic Circle, where towering mountains, icy rivers, and vast wilderness meet the relentless force of heavy-duty trains.

Witness the Might of Iore, the Iron Horse

The Malmbanan is not just any railroad; it's a testament to engineering ingenuity and human determination. Running through some of the most challenging terrain on the planet, the line requires colossal locomotives capable of hauling massive ore trains weighing up to 9,000 tons. Enter Iore, the iconic iron horse of the Malmbanan. These state-of-the-art engines, adorned with vibrant livery, represent the pinnacle of railroading technology. With their thunderous engines and immense pulling power, Iore effortlessly conquer the steep gradients and unforgiving curves that define the Malmbanan.

Immerse Yourself in the Arctic Wilderness

As the train winds its way through the Arctic Circle, passengers are treated to a breathtaking spectacle of untouched nature. Snow-covered peaks rise majestically above the tracks, their pristine slopes untouched by human footprints. Icy rivers glisten in sunlight, meandering through forests of towering pines and birches. The piercing cries of eagles echo through the valleys, while herds of reindeer graze peacefully on the tundra. The Malmbanan is more than just a railroad; it's a journey through the heart of an untamed wilderness.

Unveiling the Secrets of LKAB's Mining Empire

The iron ore that fuels the Malmbanan's trains comes from the vast mines of Kiruna, one of the largest iron ore deposits in the world. Visitors to the region can explore these subterranean wonders, descending deep into the earth to witness the colossal machines that extract the precious ore. Learn about the history of mining in Kiruna, from its humble beginnings to its modern-day transformation into a global industrial powerhouse.

Experience the Thrill of Riding the Iron Road

The ultimate way to experience the Malmbanan is to ride the trains themselves. Passenger services operate along the line, offering travelers a unique opportunity to witness the spectacle of heavy railroading firsthand. As the train snakes through the mountains, passengers can marvel at the skill of the engineers and the indomitable spirit of lore. Feel the rumble of the engines and the exhilaration of traversing one of the most extreme railroads on Earth.

Plan Your Arctic Railroading Adventure Today

The Running with lores tour in 2024 promises an unforgettable adventure for railroad enthusiasts, nature lovers, and anyone seeking a truly unique travel experience. Book your place today and embark on an epic journey through the Arctic Circle, where the relentless force of heavy railroading meets the breathtaking beauty of the untamed wilderness.
