Phillip Lopate is one of our most gifted and versatile writers. In this new collection of essays, reviews, and personal prose, he turns his keen eye and sharp wit to a wide range of subjects, from literature and film to music and visual art.

Lopate's essays are always insightful and entertaining, and they offer a unique perspective on the human condition. He is a master of the personal essay, and his writing is both deeply personal and universally relatable.

In this collection, Lopate writes about his experiences as a father, a husband, and a lover. He explores the nature of creativity and the search for meaning in life. And he offers his unique insights on the work of other artists, from James Baldwin to David Mamet.

Writing With Intent is a must-read for anyone interested in literature, film, music, or visual art. It is a collection of essays that will challenge, inspire, and entertain you.
